Hornet Families!

We have some absolutely extraordinary news to share. Denver Public Schools has released their 2019 School Performance Framework (SPF) ratings for the 2018-2019 school year as of today, October 11, 2019. The School Performance Framework, or SPF, measures many important aspects of what we know makes a great school – such as how satisfied students and parents are, how much students have improved their scores on state tests from year to year, and how well the school serves and challenges all of its students.

There are 5 ratings that a school can receive on the SPF: Blue, Green, Yellow, Orange, or Red.

We’re proud to share that DSST: Conservatory Green High School received the highest possible rating on the framework:

- Blue – Distinguished
- Green – Meets Expectations
- Yellow – Accredited on Watch
- Orange – Accredited on Priority Watch
- Red – Accredited on Probation

This year was particularly rigorous for the school performance framework and DSST: Conservatory Green High School was the #1 High School in all of Denver! This rating is just a culmination of all of the benchmarks that have preceded it that we’ve shared over the last few months – but this also includes student and family satisfaction, engagement, and accounts for equity for all student populations.

To celebrate this extraordinary accomplishment, we’re having some extra special items at our Homecoming Pep Rally & Dance and some additional #1 swag to come! Congratulations to our students, staff, and families for this extraordinary accomplishment!

Sincerely,
Adeel Khan
