A Learning Experience that Changed Me:

This summer I had the amazing opportunity to walk across Spain on the Camino de Santiago. I spent 30 days walking more than 250 miles and along the way I met people from all over the world, of all ages and all abilities. It was incredible to watch everyone make the Camino their own journey knowing that we were all working towards the same goal! People walked at their own pace, on their own route and in their own style. While everyone walks their own journey, the Camino provides a community of people who want nothing but the best for everyone along the way. Those walking the Camino support one another to ensure that everyone makes it to the final destination! What a better place this world would be if we all lifted one another up and cheered each other on as we walk through the journey of life!!
